DILLARD UNIVERSITY
NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA

Foreword

Sitting in the library one day last Spring, I began to wonder what kind of yearbook would Shakespeare or Pushkin have written.

Would the book contain passages of immortal verse? Would it contain priceless copper engraved illustrations of Elizabethan or Russian campus life?

What would the famous bards say if one of them were standing in line in the dining hall and suddenly remembered that his meal ticket had expired the day before? What would have been the poetic response if our heroes were faced with the necessity of staying awake listening to a poor speaker in chapel?

Somehow there is contained in our passage through college the ingredient of a drama. As a freshman our days were filled with the excitement of the new; later as a Sophomore and a Junior the joys and sorrows of victory and defeat bombarded us; and in the rain of explosions we slowly found some maturity—and now as a Senior we must confess that our four years at Dillard have been a drama that will soon be ended. Funny thing, though—the play itself will continue.

I wonder how our famous poets would express this paradox?

Dedication

If you saw her walking down the street, you might get the impression that such neatness and collegiate sophistication belonged to an executive of a large corporation. When she is seated at her desk in her office counseling one of her many students, her voice flows warm and friendly, with overtones of a deep concern for individual excellence.

With complete ease she dramatizes the fact that femininity and the Ph.D. can make elegant partners; she is considered by all to be a master teacher.

Congratulations to you, Dr. Violet K. Richards, head of the Division of Education here at Dillard. We dedicate our 1965 yearbook to you.

The Curtain Closes . . .

"The excitement of walking down the avenue of oaks, following the solemn-faced faculty and moving through the memories of a thousand happy-dead experiences of the past four years . . . well, that's the last of the uproar leading toward graduation . . . But what next? What's up ahead? I wonder what my folks are thinking? I wonder if I put the transistor radio in the suitcase with the rest of my things? I wonder where I'll be working this fall? . . . I hope the speaker isn't long-winded . . . this moment is too much . . . Has it really been four whole years? . . ."

On The Current Play . . .

"See me? I'm that wild-eyed, eager freshman in the center. How did I know that my date couldn't dance? Well, I wasn't completely out of it, there were plenty around me who could . . . especially the upperclassmen. They really think they're in to something. The ones in William Hall try to know everything that goes on on campus. I wonder how much Physical Science they know? . . ."

The Drama Goes On . . .

"The day I lined up with my class in front of the library I had no idea that the Dillard patriotic fervor would mean so many things . . . trips to the mail box, where I would meet interesting new folks . . . lining up for hot coffee at a special reception for a campus "big-wig" . . . and so many things, little things, that make a day."

"I toyed with the idea of pledging . . . then relented . . . and after I had enjoyed myself at a number of football games, I soon saw the need for a Greek letter organization . . . but, Oh . . . the changes you go through during 'Hell Week' . . . I was glad that I could 'take it' . . . it was another door that opened . . . it gave me a chance to see what we thought of ourselves and our ideas for common good. There were moments of despair . . . but there were also many occasions for fruitful discussions and ecstatic laughter . . ."

To Meet Another Day . . .

Act—I

"All the World's a Stage
And all the men and women merely players
They have their exits and their entrances
And one man in his life time plays many parts"

—SHAKESPEARE

The Stage is Set . . .

ADMINISTRATION

"The best time to see our trustees is either during the ceremonies at Founders' Day or at Commencement. Here you can see them the way I saw them . . . in their caps and gowns . . . The first time I saw them in regular attire was the morning that Dr. Lawless' portrait was presented in chapel. That was an inspiring morning, and Dr. Lawless was too cute . . . the way he accepted his honors . . .

DR. ALBERT W. DENT

PRESIDENT

I remember our president as he spoke at our last banquet. I didn't know that his smile could be so warm and out-going. I guess with the many responsibilities that a president has, there is little chance for laughter and smiles. So often, I have seen President Dent as a speaker . . . but the times that I remember most are the occasions when he would say, "Hello," as I passed him on one of his casual jaunts through the campus. O, yes! didn't he and Mrs. Dent look too cute as they waited together at the Freshman Dance??

Act—II

"Discipline and government are skills which every person must learn, or at least, be taught. The Greeks first theorized ideal forms of government; the Roman perfected a discipline which ruled the ancient world. Today, the world is in greater need of good rule and of good citizens, than it has been before, and it is now and here that these abilities must be developed."

ZETA PHI BETA

Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, founded in 1920 at Howard University, boasts of over two hundred graduate Chapters. Alpha Beta Chapter strives to uphold the sorority's ideals of sisterly love, scholarship, humanitarian service, and Finer Womanhood.

Barbara Carr, Gwendolyn Bailey, Perry Chambers, Josephine Davis, Linda Miles.

SIGMA GAMMA RHO

Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority was organized November 12, 1922, in Indianapolis, Indiana as a teachers sorority. However, due to the feeling that there was a need to further the cause of higher education generally among college women Sigma Gamma Rho became an incorporated collegiate sorority on December 30, 1929.

Some of its activities are: a national literary contest among high schools and colleges a National "Teen Town" to assist in combating juvenile delinquency, and a scholarship program.

MORE CASUAL 'SHOTS' OF THE DILLARD FAMILY

The Dillard Choir singing with the New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra.

Threepenny Opera: A Citywide Success For Dillard Theater.

DRAMA

Here you see some of the scenes which the Dillard family saw last Spring. It was simply breathtaking. Under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Greenhoe, Assistant Professor of Drama and Speech, and with the aid of a supporting cast that must have rehearsed for thousands of hours, Threepenny Opera took the city by storm.

DRAMA

The fact that this was the first time we had witnessed our Dillard players accompanied by a musical score seemed a genuine professional accomplishment. Our thespians deserve shiny "Oscars" for such a history-making performance.

CAFETERIA STAFF

MAINTENANCE STAFF

NEWSPAPER

The "Courtbouillon" is issued once a month. This year the entire staff has received much of its enthusiasm from Louis Powe and Linda Miles, the editors, and Mr. Vernon Winslow, and Mrs. Sylvia Huete, the advisors. With meetings that occur almost every week, and with a determination to make the newspaper more representative of student life; the "Courtbouillon" has taken great strides.

Linda Miles, co-editor, busy at typewriter.

FOUNDER'S DAY-1869-1964

Chase 'em down.

He's just what I want and everything.

I guess he'll do in a rush.

And I guess he did do.

Caught 'em.

No honey he's mine.

Treed.

SADIE HAWKINS DAY 1965

"May you all have Merry Christmas and a Happy New year."

OUR ANNUAL CHRISTMAS DINNER

"I don't know what note they are on but I am on 'High C.'"

Oh, a new wig.

I thought I knew the words.

A portion of the Dillard Family

I'd rather eat than sing.

This receiving line is just too long.

Who will be the future Miss America from this group???????????

She really goes for this punch.

"And girl he crushed my toes and I left him standing."

She did save the last dance for me.

UNIVERSITY PARTY

FRESHMAN ORIENTATION 1964

Let me see, when did Columbus discover America?

No, Darryl that's not the way.

When she ran her fingers through the waves she got sea sick.

The night the celebrities hit the campus.

Now, whose look the best??

CAMPUS LIFE

Mama said ther'd be days like this

Have Iron, will travel

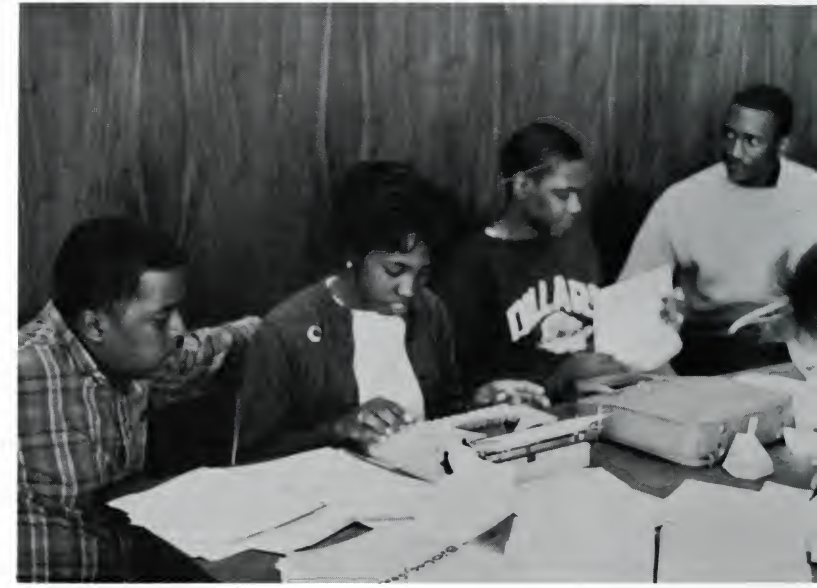

Do the Second Line!

Time for my Sunday afternoon nap.

DO YOU REMEMBER WHEN? . . .

Anyway you look at it, the Dillard family shares some mighty tasty informal moments . . . for instance . . .

"We sometimes look aghast
Adown the lanes of memory
Alas, the time is past.
Ah, then the world was at our feet
When we were sweet-and-twenty. . ."
Noel Coward, "Bittersweet"

THANKS FOR DR. LESTER GRANGER AND MR. ROY WILKINS . . .

Dr. Lester Granger is a member of our faculty. His genial smile and his tremendous knowledge of the field of Social Planning make us prouder of the "Blue and White."

This is the way we welcome our distinguished guests . . . it's called a receiving line. . . . It's really fun . . .

WE PROUDLY SALUTE . . .

Dr. Martin Luther King, director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, for extending the real meaning of Christian Leadership to every college campus throughout the civilized world.

The most exasperating part of producing a year-book is the fact that we have no academic subjects which directly relate to our struggle for professional excellence. Everyone is almost new to the job; each year our regular courses require more and more time. Then too, our support is on a volunteer basis. This means, then, that such realistic demands like emergency meetings, (even ordinary meetings), the constant scheduling of picture-taking activities that involve hundreds of man-hours and hundreds of students . . . all these seem to eventually fall upon the shoulders of two or three super-dedicated persons.

Therefore, the 1965 Diable Bleu, is late in arriving this year. However, we wanted this yearbook to be produced, not for the students, but by the students, and; consequently, it took us a longer period of time to adjust to the mountain of unforeseen difficulties.

Thanks to Louis Powe and John Thompson who took over the job of producing this book after the original editor, Jerome Wilson was forced to relinquish his duties as editor. Mr. Wilson was faced with his enormous responsibilities in chemical research. The original plan for this book was his and Miss Louise Blocker's. Thanks also to Mr. Vernon Winslow, our advisor, who didn't scream aloud when we found that our studies and our prior commitments kept us from the editing table. Thanks to Linda Miles for her typing services.
